Sian Lattimer

Avid & Premiere (Offline & Online) Editor

Profile

Sian's career journey began at The Joint, where she quickly rose through the ranks. Her exceptional abilities are evident in her enthusiasm for embracing new challenges and her unwavering dedication to every project she takes on.

Possessing a versatile skill set and a composed demeanour, Sian is willing to invest substantial time in sifting through hours of footage to unearth compelling stories. With a rich background in music programming encompassing performances, events, promos, and documentaries, Sian's expertise is extensive and notably, she is a classically trained singer. In recent times, Sian has expanded her focus to include narrative documentary work, delving into genres like true crime. Renowned for her work on projects which need a little troubleshooting and restructuring, she takes immense pleasure in this aspect of her work.

She excels in enriching storylines by adding layers to the narrative and seamlessly weaving them together. Clients commend her for bringing life and empathy to the characters and her adept use of pacing and music in documentary editing. A notable achievement is her transformative work on 'The Footballer, his wife and the Crash', which she helped turn into an award-winning 90-minute film.
